

HUNT FOR WILKINS; INDICTMENT AS SLAYER SOUGHT

Police Close All Avenues of Escape in City as Prosecutor Acts.

CAPTURE EXPECTED SOON

New Will, Dead Wife's Gems
and Blood Stained Money
Used as Evidence.

With the sudden disappearance of Dr. Walter K. Wilkins as one of the strongest links in the chain of evidence connecting him with the death of his wife at their home at Long Beach, L. I., on February 27, District Attorney Weeks will go to the Nassau county Grand Jury to ask and the indictment of Dr. Wilkins for murder in the first degree.

Mr. Weeks declared last night that sufficient evidence to ask for an indictment was in his possession on Monday night when he went before Justice of the Peace Coleman of Long Beach and obtained a warrant charging Dr. Wilkins with the murder of his wife. Dr. Wilkins has claimed that burglars killed his wife.

"But when a man who already knows that a serious charge against him is under consideration, flees or conceals himself, it is proper for a jury to consider the fact of his flight or hiding as bearing on his guilt," Mr. Weeks said.

Captures Expected Soon.
"Unless Dr. Wilkins has destroyed himself, which I doubt exceedingly, I am under no anxiety that he will get away for good. A man of his age and individual appearance, and with the mannerisms of gait, speech and behavior, will not be able to conceal himself for very long. I doubt, too, if he has much ready money with him. I have circulated his picture and a description of him all over the country and he is sure to be turned up within a short time. Except that his disappearance will inconvenience us temporarily, I am almost grateful to him for the strength which this flight has added to the case."

Among the witnesses who have been summoned to appear before the Grand Jury this morning are Chief of Police Tracey and Sergeant Harry Schneider of Long Beach, who were on duty on the night Dr. Wilkins called for help the night his wife was killed and who took his statement; Allen D. Myers of the William J. Burns Detective Agency, who has had the chief part in the search of the Wilkins house at Long Beach; Coroner E. T. Neu of Lynbrook, who took down a statement from Dr. Wilkins; Mrs. Cassius Coleman, with whom Dr. Wilkins has talked since the murder; Dr. Arthur W. Dequar, who performed the autopsy; Mrs. Wilkins's body and Dr. F. T. Deiano, who assisted him.

When applying on Monday night for the warrant which charges Dr. Wilkins with the murder of his wife, Mr. Weeks based his main belief in the physician's guilt on the draft of a will, in which Dr. Wilkins's signature but not witnessed, given to him on Sunday by Louis G. Fries, the physician's lawyer. He and Fries met by appointment at the conference at which Dr. Wilkins had agreed to be present but did not appear. Mr. Fries turned the draft of the will over to Mr. Weeks, saying Dr. Wilkins had given it to him, and that he had informed the doctor that he would give it to the District Attorney. It is Dr. Wilkins's equity in two pieces of real estate. The only previous will known to have been made by Mrs. Wilkins was executed before her marriage to Dr. Wilkins and leaves him nothing.

Money Found in House.
But in going before the Grand Jury to-day Mr. Weeks will be equipped with further evidence which was not in his possession on Monday night. He will be able to show that detectives searching the Long Beach house came upon some of Mrs. Wilkins's jewelry and some money lying in a trunk and in bureau drawers which they had previously searched without success. The articles which were found in the trunk and bureau drawers were the articles which Dr. Wilkins, who had previously removed the articles and money, put them back where they had been after he knew he was suspected, but without the knowledge that the trunk and bureau had been searched already.

Mr. Weeks will also prove the finding yesterday of a roll of blood stained bills in a mattress at the Long Beach house. He would say no more about this piece of evidence last night when he was asked to be found and that the evidence was new.

Mr. Weeks will also call Mr. Fries, Dr. Wilkins's lawyer, as a witness, but does not expect much assistance from him as all Mr. Fries's knowledge of Dr. Wilkins and his affairs has been received confidentially and between attorney and client and is privileged. Mr. Fries issued the following statement in the missing physician's behalf yesterday:

"Legally the new paper or will in which Dr. Wilkins receives the entire property of his wife is worthless, and if the District Attorney believes there is sufficient motive to commit this crime in the possession of a few thousand dollars, when during the lifetime of his wife the doctor had no such property, it is his affair. The statement in this morning's newspapers that another will has been found in which Dr. Wilkins receives all the property is incorrect."

"In searching for a later will a paper was found which evidently Mrs. Wilkins had drawn up by a trust and which in most respects is an exact copy of the 1903 will, except that Dr. Wilkins is given the property at 164 West Sixty-fifth street, heavily mortgaged, and the property at Long Beach, which was already had a half interest by deed. That property also is mortgaged."

"It is my belief that the equity in the properties mentioned is not worth more than a few thousand dollars. Otherwise with the exception of a few minor bequests the will is similar to the 1903 document."

All avenues by which Dr. Wilkins may leave this city are being guarded and the police of Washington have been asked to make a careful search of the city there. He is said to have several friends there, and Washington is also the home of Mrs. E. D. Shepherd, known in this city under her maiden name, Olga Shepherd, who is a daughter of Dr. Wilkins's second wife.

O'LEARY CASE GOES TO JURY TO-MORROW

Brother of Accused Editor Defends Actions in Six Hour Address.

Arthur O'Leary, counsel for the American Truth Society, summed up yesterday for Jeremiah A. O'Leary and others accused of violating the espionage law at the trial before Judge A. N. Hand and a jury in the Federal District Court. The case is now going to the jury to-morrow. The lawyer, brother of Jeremiah, was frequently personal in attacking the efforts of the Government to imprison Jeremiah and his associates for a violent anti-war campaign in Bull after the United States had become a belligerent.

Arthur O'Leary urged the jurors not to permit any prejudice they may have against Jeremiah O'Leary and the Sinn Féin movement in this country to influence their verdict. He referred to the Dreyfus and Parnell cases.

He said the Government made an attack on the Irish race a part of its case at the beginning but changed its course when it found the associates of O'Leary in raising a fund to provide for relatives of the victims of the Dublin revolt were Catholics, Gibbons, Sinn Féin, and so on.

Referring to the situation of his brother Arthur O'Leary said: "They say he fled from justice. Let me tell you the circumstances. He was taken away. He was sick in body and mind. He had trouble in trying to get a lawyer to defend him."

John O'Leary, wanted him to go to the Adirondacks. Arthur Lyons wanted him to go to Reno. He decided to go West. In St. Louis a woman in his side began to trouble him. He then decided to go close to nature. He went to Oregon and bought a farm."

O'Leary attacked Carl B. Barnes, assistant United States Attorney, who checked by Judge Hand. He said testimony of Arthur Lyons or Mrs. Marie de Victoria was not to be believed.

O'Leary said he was followed to-day by William H. Daly, counsel for Adolph Stern, and Thomas B. Fidler, counsel for Jeremiah O'Leary. Mr. Marshall will close for the Government. The case will not go to the jury before to-morrow.

MORE TAXES FOR BROKERS.
Theatre Owners Also Must Pay "Special."

Collector Edwards issued notice yesterday to stock brokers, amusement concert hall proprietors that they have not done with the income tax. He gave out a list of special tax obligations which becomes due March 25, just thirty days after the passage of the act.

Brokers are to turn over $50 or more if they are members of stock exchanges, board of directors of corporations, or if the act cost over $2,000 and less than $5,000 the extra tax is $100; if more than $5,000 the extra tax is $180. The special extra tax is to be paid for the period January 1, 1919-June 30, 1919, amounting to $25 and up as assessed.

Theatre owners operating houses with a seating capacity of not more than 250 persons may pay $50. Larger houses pay more. $200 being assessed for places seating over 300 persons. Amusements and halls rented for occasional entertainments are exempt.

Additional tax for the first half of this year is also assessed. The tax on bowling alleys and billiard rooms is $10 for each alley or table.

WOULD SUPPLY DRUG ADDICTS.
Dr. Hamilton Suggests City Control of Dispensing Dope.

Dr. James A. Hamilton, Commissioner of Correction, in a statement yesterday suggested opening stations under the direction of the Board of Health where addicts could obtain their supply of prescribed quantities. He said that the drug evil has become so pronounced that some remedy must be attempted.

"The addiction is a disease," he said, "and has become such an increasing menace that if allowed to continue unchecked it will ruin not only the individual but the nation as well. By this plan addicts would be removed from the streets and placed under the supervision of the Health Department, where they would be examined, registered and fingerprinted. They would receive a card which would identify them and be on the means of their procuring the necessary drug. They would be sent then to correctional institutions where they could not go or come at will."

Dr. Hamilton declared that the best drug treatment is reduction.

"DOLLAR A YEAR" MAN FREED.
Governor Pardons Man Who Got Long Term for Theft.

William H. Johnson, sentenced to Sing Sing from Manhattan for thirty years and known in prison as the "dollar a year man," was released from Clinton prison at Dannemora yesterday. After serving ten years, on a commutation from the Governor.

Judge Otto Rosakowski sentenced Johnson to pay a fine of $100 and $100 a year for the next five years. He was arrested in 1909, after he had held up and robbed Albert Pitney of a trifle over $30 in the doorway of his home at 609 West 130th street, Manhattan.

Because his sentence was about the equivalent of a year for every dollar he stole he was nicknamed the "dollar a year man."

KIDNAPPINGS START RIOT BY STUDENTS

Their Officers Stolen, Columbia Freshies Battle Sophs in Columbia Circle.

POLICE RESERVES CALLED

Four Captives Used to Entertain Tormentors, but First Year Men Get 17 Hostages.

The freshmen and sophomore classes of Columbia College, which have been more or less quiescent for the period of the war broke loose again last night and the annual dinner of the sophomore class at Reisenweber's Restaurant was preceded by one of the grandest and most enjoyable little riots that Columbia Circle has ever seen, because the freshmen had become very, very angry when they learned that the sophomores had kidnapped the four officers of the freshmen class and contemplated using them in lieu of vaudeville entertainment for the delectation of the sophomore diners.

The freshmen met the sophomores in Columbia Circle, and it required more than three thousand enthusiastic spectators and all the police reserves from the West Forty-seventh street police station to pry them apart. When the battle was over the sophomores retained the kidnapped freshmen officers and the freshmen had knocked out seventeen sophomore diners and taken them into the wilds of Central Park in a moving van.

Sophomore Dinner Is Merry.
At a late hour this morning the sophomore dinner was still proceeding merrily and a good time was being had by all, with the exception of the freshmen officers, who, according to a bulletin, were learning how to drink beer out of a sophomore's boot. Freshman scouts said that if this were so seventeen sophomores held prisoner in Central Park were most awfully out of luck.

For years it has been the ambition of both classes to capture the other side's officers and teach them some manners, to say nothing of having a chance to develop such histrionic talent as they might possess. But no one was ever able to do this until last week, when the freshmen, by a series of well-planned maneuvers, captured the sophomore officers and taught them some manners, to say nothing of having a chance to develop such histrionic talent as they might possess.

Arthur O'Leary, counsel for the American Truth Society, summed up yesterday for Jeremiah A. O'Leary and others accused of violating the espionage law at the trial before Judge A. N. O'Leary said he was followed to-day by William H. Daly, counsel for Adolph Stern, and Thomas B. Fidler, counsel for Jeremiah O'Leary. Mr. Marshall will close for the Government. The case will not go to the jury before to-morrow.

ASKS FUNDS TO PROVIDE JOBS.
Dr. Kirchwey Confers With War Work Representatives.

A committee was appointed by Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Federal Director of Employment, at a meeting with representatives of the various organizations yesterday to determine how much of the $150,000 needed to run the employment service until July 1 can be raised by this organization. The members of the committee are Dr. Harry P. Swift, Knights of Columbus; George S. Dalgerty and Harry Bremer, War Camp Community Service; Dr. Leon L. Waters and F. L. Guenther, Jewish Welfare Board; A. H. Kyer, Y. M. C. A.; Miss Eugenia Wallace, Y. W. C. A.; and E. W. Edwards, a labor representative.

The organizations made reports showing the number of opportunities obtained and the number of service men placed in jobs. All of the organizations have made appropriations for carrying on their own employment bureaus indefinitely.

SOCIALIST VERDICT STANDS.
Judge Mayer Refuses to Dismiss Conviction.

Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer denied yesterday a motion to set aside the verdict of a jury convicting the American Socialist Society of violating the espionage laws. The society was tried with Scott Nearing, charged with publishing and circulating the educator's anti-war pamphlet called "The Great Madness."

The motion for dismissal included no claim based on the inconsistency of the verdict. The questions raised were solely those of law. Judge Mayer declared he found nothing in the record to warrant the setting aside of the verdict. He added that the jury was not to go or come at will. He said that it was evidence that it gave careful consideration to the facts.

The court set March 21 as the day for sentence. The defendant society is liable to a maximum fine of $10,000. It occupies the building at 122 East Fifteenth street, and does a large publishing business.

SCALPERS BARRED AT MILLS.
Sellers Agree Not to Sell Parade Tickets.

Ticket scalpers entering to the market for seats for the coming twenty-seventh Division parade in New York have been combing Camp Mills in the last few days to buy up the tickets in advance for the soldiers here in the last few days. Capt. Louis H. Bulech, head of the military police here, today put a stop to further activities of the scalpers and forbade the delivery of the tickets they have already contracted for.

The soldiers who sold tickets have agreed that they will scrupulously respect the orders of the military police chief.

SLEEPING SICKNESS TAKES 2 MORE LIVES

Total Mortalities in New York City Now Are Four.

Reports of two more deaths, one resulting from true epidemic coma and the other due to a post influenza condition, were received yesterday at the Department of Health. This brings the total number of victims as a result of "sleeping sickness" to date up to four, two ascribed to the almost known as "lethargia encephalitica" and two resulting from the so-called post influenza coma.

Dr. Irving R. Roth, an interne at Mount Sinai Hospital, reported yesterday the case of Mrs. Fannie Mellinger, 27, a housewife, of 4 East 107th street, who died in that institution on March 17 of an illness that began no February 14. She remained in a constant stupor for thirteen days and had been at the hospital nine days when she died.

In the opinion of Dr. Roth, S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, the symptoms in this case indicated the condition described as a sequel to influenza.

The other more fatal case reported was that of Daisy Colcock, 54 years old, of 304 West Sixty-ninth street, whose death yesterday following a comatose condition was ascribed to "lethargia encephalitica," or "sleeping sickness."

Bellevue and Flower hospitals report that they have had no cases so far.

JURY CANNOT DECIDE GUILT OF MRS. INCH

Second Trial Ends in Disagreement and Arbiters Are Discharged.

The jury which failed to get a glimpse of the trim ankles of Mrs. Betty Brewster Inch disagreed last night and was discharged after deliberating for ten hours over the question of her guilt or innocence on the charge that she attempted to extort money from Eugene P. Herrmann, head of the Herrmann Motor Truck Company.

After the jury had been discharged, Foreman Mayer, who is a brother of former Assistant District Attorney Mayer, said the jury stood six for and six against conviction. Justice Vernon M. Davis, before whom the trial was conducted in the Supreme Court, was not present when the jury was discharged.

Justice Davis left the Criminal Courts Building early in the evening when the jury, having already been out several hours, still showed no signs of approach. For one night they were kept in the home of a sophomore officer, and then they were taken by force down to a place on Long Island, the name of which the sophomore would divulge.

The next day after the kidnapping, the jury appeared at Reisenweber's for a banquet held last night in the name of the Caravan Club, which he said was a Brooklyn uplift organization.

Monday morning freshmen scouts began peering on the trail of their kidnapped officers, so the freshmen heads were taken by their abductors over into Connecticut, where they rested at an abandoned house guarded by Mrs. O'Leary about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Tied Under the Table.
Then they were tied and gagged and blindfolded and brought to Reisenweber's in taxicabs, spirited into the banquet hall and tied together under the table, with a piece of lead to eat and lots of things to drink about. The guests were left in a place except when a guard was there, for fear the language of the imprisoned ones would set the place on fire.

The freshmen heard about all this and mustered all their forces. About fifty of them drove up to Reisenweber's about 5 o'clock with two big moving vans and surrounded the restaurant. The rest of the freshmen went to Columbia Circle. The sophomore met in the Circle a little after 8 and started to march to the restaurant, when they were set upon by the freshmen. There were about 250 in each crowd and the battle raged right merrily until the police reserves came.

OFFER REWARD FOR ARSONIST.
Tarrytown Will Pay $500 for His Apprehension.

A reward of $500 was offered yesterday by the Board of Trustees of Tarrytown, N. Y., for the apprehension of a man who is keeping residents of the town in a state of apprehension. For the last month there have been several fires in the town and the damage has amounted to several thousands of dollars.

Sunday night there were three incendiary blazes. On Monday night a barn on the River farm, which is part of John D. Rockefeller's estate, was set ablaze and thirty tons of hay destroyed. Shortly after the alarm had been sounded, fire was discovered in the Young Men's League, in which the Public Library is located. It had not gained much headway and was extinguished with small damage.

TWO WAR PRIESTS REASSIGNED.
Fathers Heaton and Donovan Resume Clerical Duties.

Mr. Joseph P. Mooney, administrator of the archdiocese, has reassigned two of the war priests who have been ministered out of war service. They are the Rev. James P. Heaton and the Rev. John J. Donovan.

Before joining the service Father Heaton was attached to St. Andrew's Church, City Hall place and Duane street, of which Mr. Luke J. Peters is rector. Mr. Heaton, 25, had been in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Tuckahoe.

Father Donovan was one of three priests who left the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Fifty-fifth street, and First avenue, to join the service. He has been in active service for about ten months.

GIRL GUILTY IN MOTOR DEATH.
Brooklyn Merchant's Daughter Drove Car Without License.

A jury before County Judge Dike in Brooklyn, yesterday, found Miss Olga K. Dias, seventeen-year-old daughter of A. G. Dias, a Syrian merchant and editor of a Syrian newspaper, who lives at 233 Third street, guilty of manslaughter in the death of a young man in a motor vehicle law. It was charged that for two years she has been driving her father's automobile without a license, and that on October 25 last she ran over and killed Jennie Stable, 7 years old, of 254 Second street.

The prosecution alleged Miss Dias had violated the law by driving after the accident. In her own defense she testified that a crowd started toward her car shouting, "Kill her!" and that she drove off to escape. A $25,000 damage suit has been filed against her father as a result of the accident.

KEELER ESTATE TO RELATIVES.
John W. Keeler, who at the time of his death on March 5 was chief clerk in the office of District Attorney Swann, left his estate, valued at $10,000, to five nephews and nieces.

The estate consisted entirely of personal property. Keeler was a former newspaper man and for many years wrote under the pen name of "Cholly Knickerbocker."

He was a member of Tammany Hall and under Mayor Van Wyck was Commissioner of Charities. He was also a former president of the National Democratic Club.

JOHN WANAMAKER

A. T. STEWART 1823

COMBINED IN NEW YORK 1896

JOHN WANAMAKER 1861

New York, March 19, 1919.
Good morning!
The weather today will probably be fair.

The Vegetable Garden

Of the United States

seems to be fixed for Florida, from present appearances. Moses places the creation of vegetables on the third day of creation, and after the production of light and atmosphere, and after the waters receded from the land.

The arrangement of the solar system came afterward.

The plants and seeds began the operations of germinating in the darkness and moisture and slight heat of the ground at times wherein they found a living principle of vegetation, though in their growth and flower they required the beams of the sun.

One writer has said: "There must be internal force and external stimulus. Neither is enough in itself. A rose will not flower in the dark, and a fern will not flower anywhere."

Spain is said to have in it nothing barren, or not in some way useful. This is possible to our lives and our work, whatever it be.

March 19, 1919.

The Store will be closed all day on the day of the Great Parade, to give every welcome to the heroes of the 27th Division.

The Unusual press of visitors coming to welcome our brave boys home has inspired a number of important merchandising events, which will be announced from day to day. Metal bedsteads, mattresses, bedspreads, linens, china, housewares—sales of all these are now going on, at material reductions from regular prices. Here is tomorrow's news. Thursday will be a great day in silks, blarkets, rugs. New fashions, of course, arrive every day.

Fashion Notes from the New Paris Collection

Lanvin, Doucet, Jenny, Martiel et Armand, Bulloz, and many other great houses represented in this Spring collection.

Lanvin is represented by one of her famous beaded gowns. A gown of flesh colored crepe de chine embroidered with crystal and gray beads and with a color note in the form of a bright lacquer red beaded "string" girdle.

Typical of the collection is a simple little beige crepe meter model from Martiel et Armand; little short sleeves typical of the Paris frocks of this Spring and an apron panel embroidered in navy blue thread.

Our studio models are unusually quaint and simple. Beautifully applied wool embroidery in pastel colors and veiled with geometric crepe is characteristic of the original gowns. Crepes de chine embroidered in vivid color, fadings, usually embroidered in wool.

Some of the particularly attractive of these frocks are almost pure Russian in line and color. For instance, a lacquer colored Russian blouse embroidered in barbaric blue, worn over a midnight blue skirt.

Interesting Hats

Again we may use ostrich in its natural state, feathery and soft. One of the most noticeable hats in the Inner Millinery Salon is of Tagal straw in a brown and green heather mixture flecked with flame.

At the side front is a cluster of shaded ostrich tips, beige and green, with an incidence of copper.

A High Plumage Wing

In brown and sand color converts a slightly upturned brim into a striking achievement.

Small Pink Roses

form the entire crown of a black lace picture hat that is faced with blue and lined with folds and a front bow of velvet.

Hedge Feathers

These hats are mostly from $15 to $25. One or two of the picture hats are from $30 to $50. First floor, Old Building.

New Blouses

—Harbingers of Spring
Delicate colors such as lily-of-the-valley, pale pink, or as fine as the bells of lily of the valley—that's how we feel about the new blouses of Georgette crepe and silk.

A Georgette crepe blouse in harebell blue with great wheels of silk embroidery on the front. The wide collarless neck has a round yoke, hemstitched. Other colors—rose or white. Price $5.95.

Two tub silks and a satin, tailored models, at $5.95. One of the silks has a convertible collar—the others have shawl collars with deep notched fronts.

Something very new is a waist of checked crepe de chine with shawl collar and conservative tailored lines. In lavender and white or blue and white. $7.50.

Third floor, Old Building.

Kiddies to Wear Silk Dresses

You'll see that they will. Presently we'll find all the little girls blossoming out in stiff little silk gowns.

Like Full-Blown Tulips

That small maiden in the picture, for instance, shows how quaint a Pompadour silk can be. It is patterned with large checks, in each of which a little rosebud is enclosed.

These Pompadour silks are the most expensive among the group specially selected for this wear. They are $8.50 yard, and very, very distinctive.
